National Events Cast New Light On Freedom

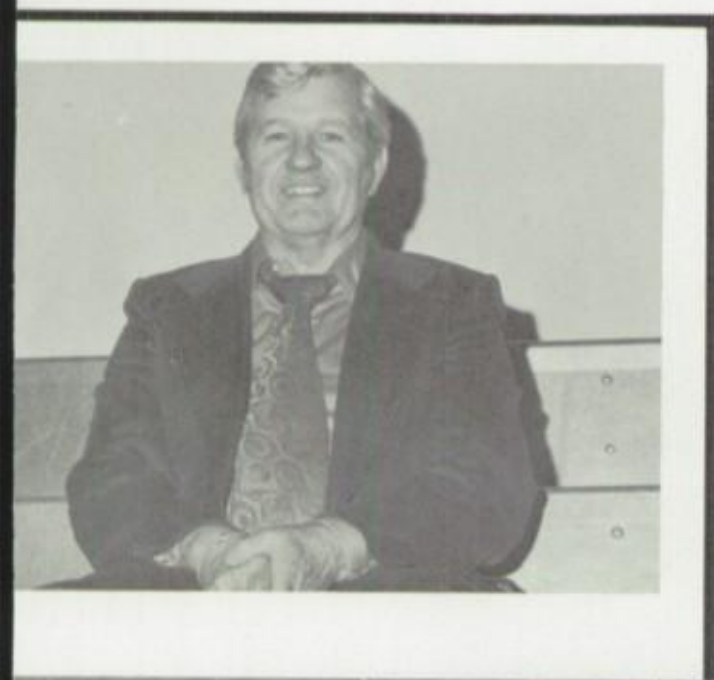

Students became more aware of the importance of their freedom to vote when President Nixon resigned under the threat of impeachment and Vice-President Gerald Ford, Nixon's appointee, became President. Ford appointed Nelson Rockefeller Vice-President. Thus, for the first time in the history of the United States, the President and Vice-President were not elected by the people.

Inflation became a serious threat to the country's welfare, and students in Advance were personally affected, especially when the price of bubble gum doubled.

The Equal Rights Amendment was big news throughout the year, but it failed to become law. Nevertheless, women became more aware of themselves as people, not just females, and girls in Advance joined boys in the Little League baseball program.

The Vietnam War ended, and thousands of refugees sought safety and freedom in the United States.

Junior Sandy Dixon Claims Miss AHS Title

Applauding parade crowds were greeted by friendly smiles and waves from Sandy Dixon, Miss AHS for 1974-75.

Sandy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, was chosen by the Advance High School students to represent the school in various parades and contests throughout the year.

Student Council Hosts First Faculty Breakfast

The Student Council, under the direction of Harold Tilley, adviser, treated the teachers, School Board, and administrators to a Faculty Breakfast, February 21, a first at AHS. The Council prepared pancakes, sausage, bacon, and orange juice.

Rainy weather brought disappointment to Student Council members, as well as the student body, more than once throughout the year. The annual bonfire was postponed twice because of rain and was later canceled because of excessive illness in the high school. During Student Week in April, the slave auction was also rained out.

Two skits and a commercial written by Gary Trout were performed for the student body during the Christmas assembly. Cans of food, collected as admission at the door, were later distributed by Student Council members to needy families around town.

Council members sold Christmas and Valentine Heart-o-grams for 25¢. Students buying a heart-o-gram composed their own messages. Council members delivered the communications if requested to do so.

AHS Picks Cookson Student Council Head

Only two candidates ran for Student Council president during Student Week, April 21-25. This eliminated the necessity for a primary election. In the general election held Friday, April 25, Steve Cookson was elected president. Kelly Kidd became vice-president.

Sports Day kicked off the excitement of the week. Everyone dressed as his favorite sports character. Other days included Greaser Day, Farmer- Western, Sadie Hawkins, and Dress-Up Day.

Kenneth McFerron Gets State Farmer Degree

The first Fall Festival at Advance High School was held October 26 and was hosted by the Future Farmers of America and the Future Homemakers of America. Queen Vicki Palmer reigned over the festivities.

Earnings for the local chapter increased again this year with a yield of 35 bushels per acre on a four-acre plot of soybeans. This was replanted in wheat, following the harvest of the beans.

In competition, the 1974-75 Soil Judging Team won seventh place in Southeast Missouri.

Individual honors were bestowed upon two members of the local chapter. Kenneth McFerron was given the State Farmer Degree. Mike Moroni was elected treasurer of FFA Area Twelve, which consists of 25 Southeast Missouri Chapters.

The organization again combined with the FHA to sponsor the Sweetheart Dance.

Winning a trip to Columbia were: Randy Beussink, FFA Chorus; Mike Moroni, delegate, Soil Judging Team; Keith Kidd, delegate; Mike Matney, FFA Chorus; Kenneth McFerron, State Farmer; Robert Francis, Soil Judging Team; Ben Lanpher, FFA Chorus; Scott Mier, Soil Judging Team; and Flay Davis, adviser.

FHA-FFA Choose Tropf, Stilts As Royalty

The Future Homemakers of America and the Future Farmers of America changed the name of their first important social event of the year from "Barnwarming" to "Fall Festival." But the square dancing, the hearty menu, and the rustic atmosphere prevailed.

The newly-installed members carried on the traditional shaving cream fights at the Bunking Party held at the Elementary Multipurpose Room on Jan. 17.

"Love Is . . ." was the theme of the Sweetheart Dance, which was held March 1. "Fletcher," a band from Cape Girardeau, provided the music. The climax of the event was the crowning of senior David Tropf and sophomore Tammy Stilts. Other candidates were: Erika Voss and Kevin Hindman, freshmen; Steve Vavak, a sophomore; Sandy Dixon and Ronnie Veale, juniors; and Teresa Shirrell, a senior.

FHA, FFA Organize October Fall Festival

Changing the name of the traditional Barnwarming, the Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America hosted a Fall Festival on October 26 at the Elementary Multipurpose Room. Seniors Vicki Palmer and Joe Noble were crowned queen and king of the event.

The coronation took place in front of a backdrop, painted by art students, which depicted a farm scene.

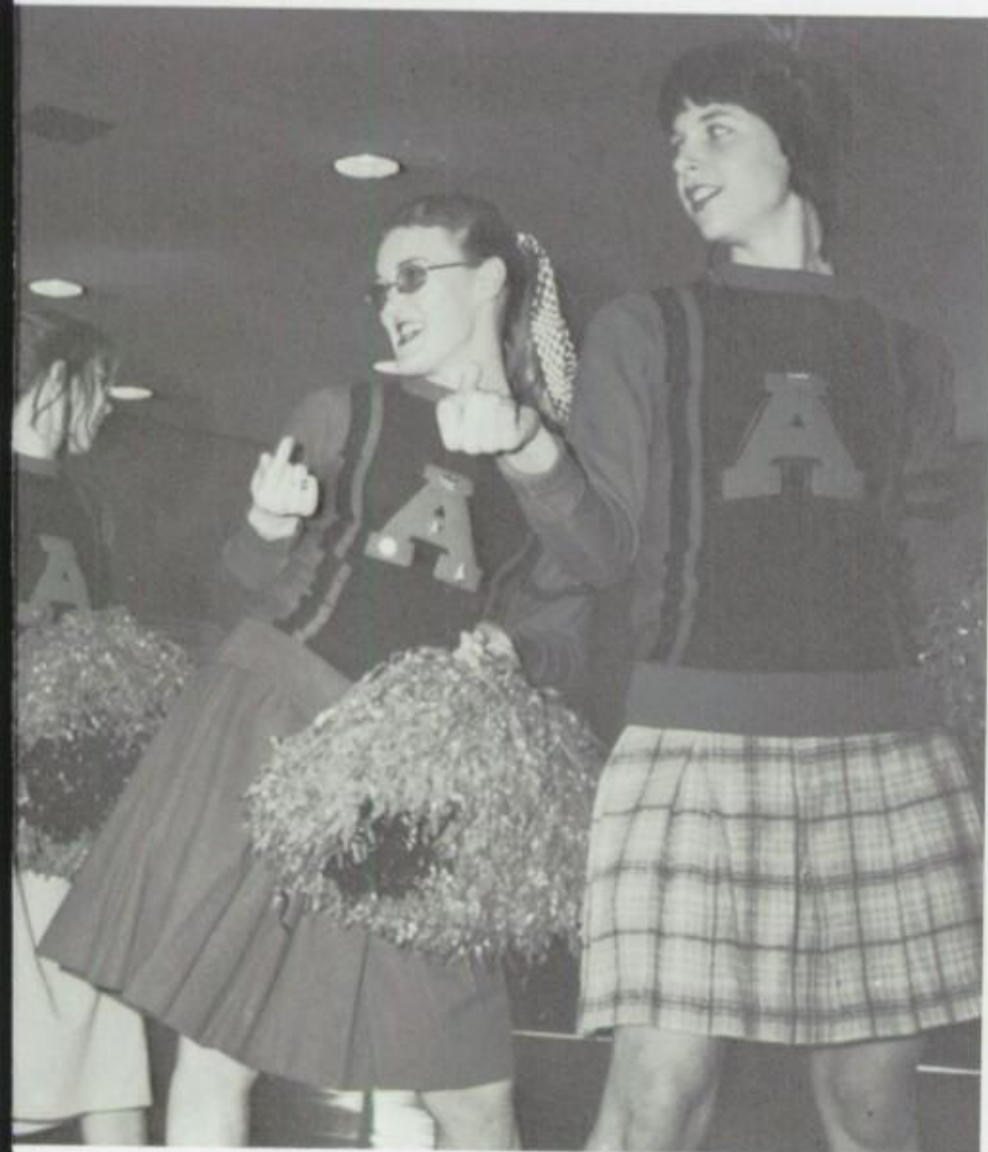

Decorations for the dance made the room appear as a barn. A smooch booth added to the fun of square dancing and playing games. Dancers also enjoyed refreshments of pickled eggs and sandwiches, peanut butter, crackers, and beverages.

Pepperettes Sponsor Alumni Ball Game

To raise money for its treasury, the Peperettes held a basketball game April 25. The boys' intramural champs challenged the faculty in the first game and lost. The star attraction for the night was the game in which alumni basketball players played the seniors of 1975. The seniors were victorious.

The Pepperettes were occupied during January and February with plans and decorations for the Homecoming.

The cheerleaders presented two pep rallies for the student body. They received peals of laughter for their presentation of the contrast between cheerleaders of the fifties and now.

Athletes Select Kidd, Daniel, Yount — Royalty

Kelly Kidd, a junior, was chosen Basketball Homecoming Queen by the junior and varsity basketball teams. She was crowned February 14.

Basketball, volleyball, baseball players and cheerleaders selected Athletic Royalty for the Athletic Banquet, which replaced the former Pepperette Banquet. Kelly Kidd crowned Tess Daniel and Royce Yount at the dinner May 9.

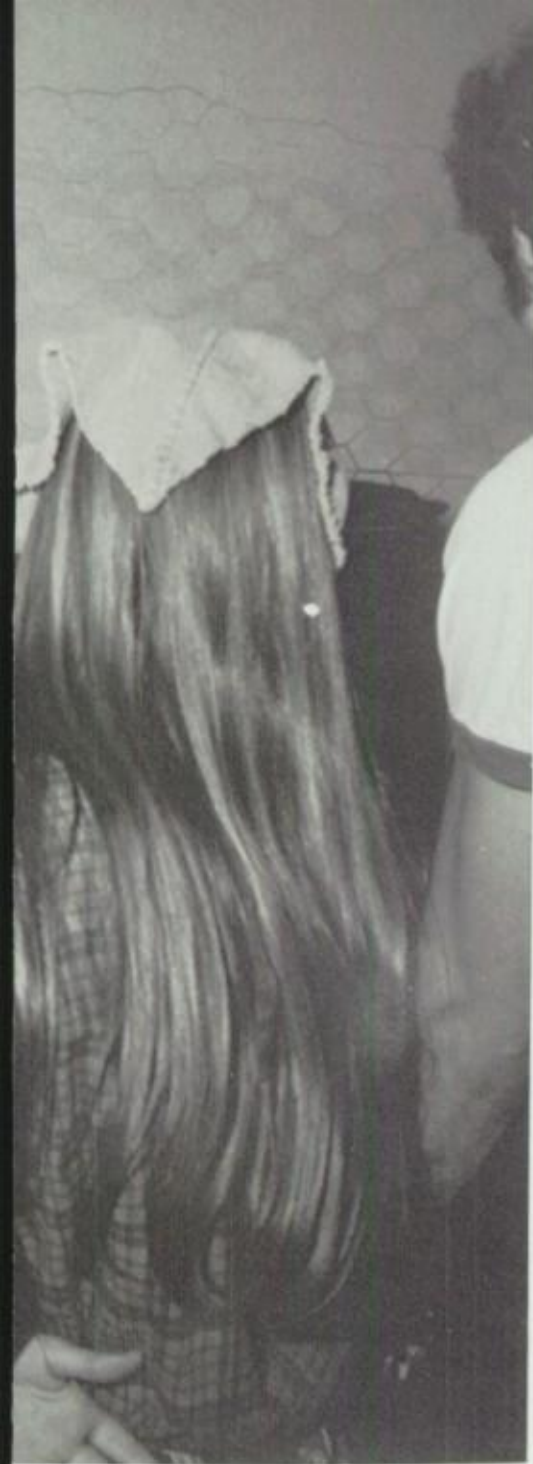

Tess was awarded a trophy for Outstanding Volleyball Player.

The following basketball awards were given out by Coach Carroll Cookson: most assists, Steve Cookson; most rebounds, David Tropf; best free throw percentage, Brad Berry; highest field goal percentage, Royce Yount; and Spark Plug Award, Danny Long. The most valuable player trophy went to David Tropf.

'Celestial Stairway' Portrayed By Prom

The decorations were the most memorable aspect of the Junior-Senior Prom held May 3, according to a random poll of those who attended.

Under the direction of class sponsors, Mrs. Mary Long and William Teeters, the juniors transformed the Elementary Multipurpose Room into a "Stairway to Heaven," the theme for the annual event. Light blue, dark blue, and silver streamers were draped from a circular center, and from this center hung a large crescent moon surrounded by many stars.

Fried Jam, a band from Cape Girardeau, provided the music for the evening, which, although less harmonious than celestial harps, kept the couples dancing until 11:00 p.m.

"A" Team Finishes Great Season, 29-3

"What a year!" exclaimed fans and players, as the basketball A team finished the season with an outstanding 29-3 record and first place in State.

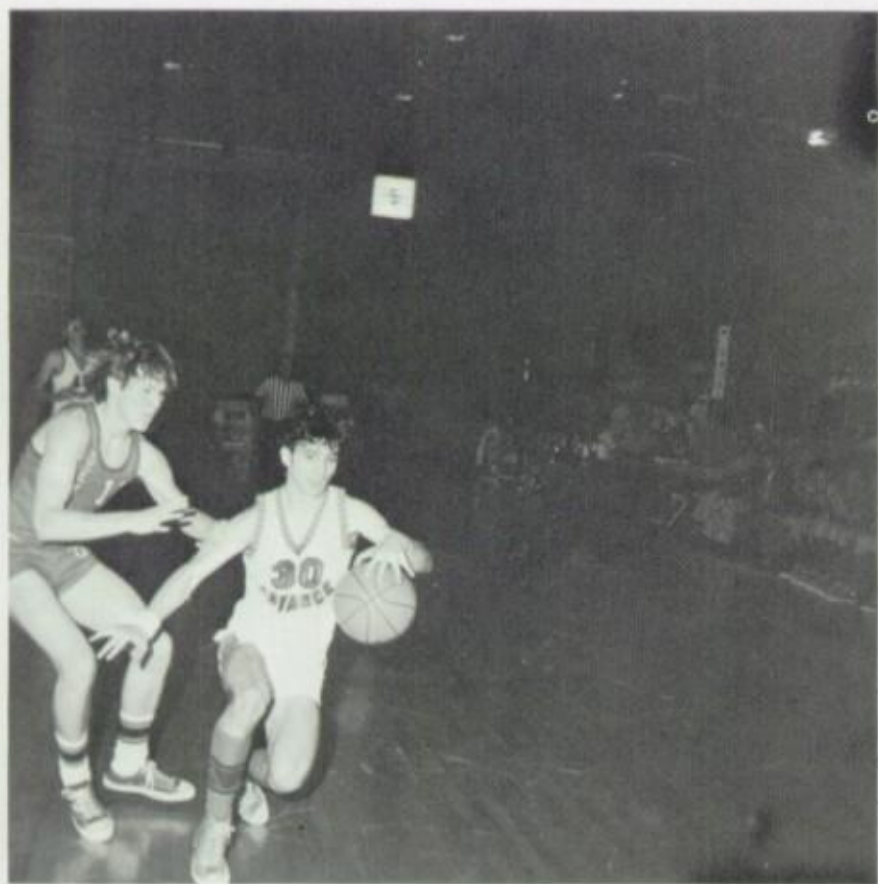

A high point of the year was when Wooddale, a Memphis team, met the Hornets at Advance and lost 72-66.

The varsity Hornets brought home four first places out of their five tournaments this year. Taking first in the Stoddard County Tournament was especially exciting since an Advance team hadn't taken first in the tourney in 12 years.

Cries of victory and tears of joy followed the Hornets' defeat of North Pemiscot in sub-state action. However, few people knew that the game was Coach Carroll Cookson's 200th victory since his arrival at Advance in 1966.

Seniors David "Stork" Tropf, Ron Oller, and Royce Yount were honored at the end of the season for their fine prowess. David and Ron were chosen as All-Staters, All-Stars, and All-Conference players. Royce received honorable mention in each. All three were named All-District players.

The team managers were Tom Kalinski and Rus Lanpher.

Spirit Follows AHS To Regional Trophy

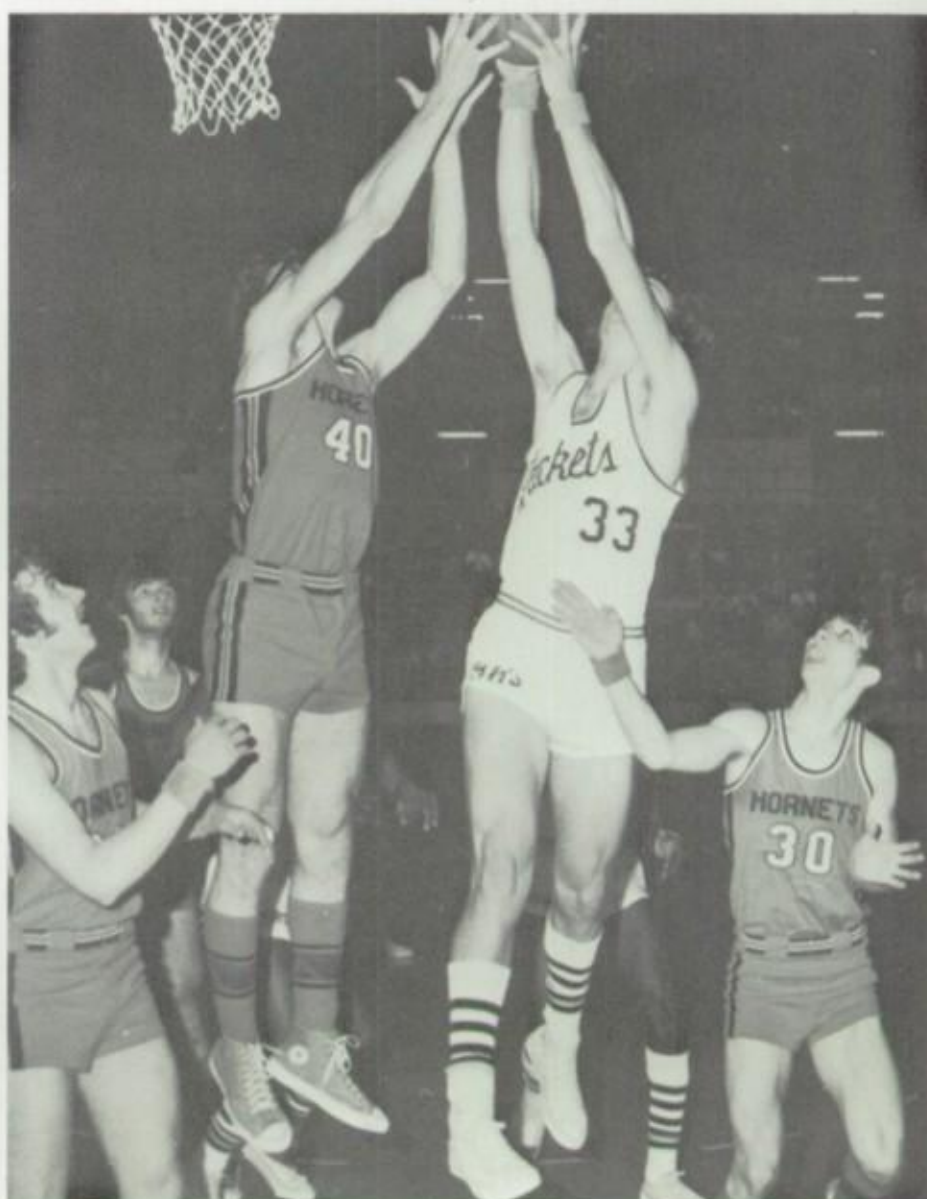

"I'm a Mama Hornet. I love No. —." Orange spirit stickers flooded the Zalma Gymnasium during the Regional Tournament, and proved prophetic, as the Hornets buzzed their way through the Regional Tournament on their way to State.

The only time the Hornets' wings fluttered was when they met a tough Viburnum team March 6. The score of that game was 59-46. Before, Advance downed St. Vincent's of Cape 117-26; Meadow Heights, 90-60; and Delta, 62-38.

When the Regional's final buzzer sounded, shouts of "Columbia, here we come!" filled the gymnasium, and an ebullient Hornet triumphantly claimed the net for the school's trophy case.

Fans Slide To State; Hornets Win Again!

Basketball fans who went to bed March 13 dreaming of an exciting trip to Columbia to watch the State finals were very unhappy to awake in the early morning hours of March 14 and find a three-inch snow covering a sheet of ice.

But the dreadful weather kept only a few fans home. Peering fearfully through falling snow in the pre-dawn hours, driving 30 miles an hour for miles while holding their breaths, the fans reached their destination in time to cheer the Hornets to an astonishing upset over the number-one seeded Glasgow, who was trying for a 64-game winning streak — a streak which would have set a new record. The score was 59-50.

The jubilant team defeated Northeast Nodaway, another undefeated team, 55-44 on March 15, to earn the State Class A Championship for the second time in four years. It was a slow, deliberate game, rather anticlimactic after the excitement of beating Glasgow. "We played the way we had to," Coach Carroll Cookson said.

Upon arriving home, the triumphant Hornets were met by a train of approximately 250 cars who demonstrated the fans' pride by parading through the town, honking noisily.

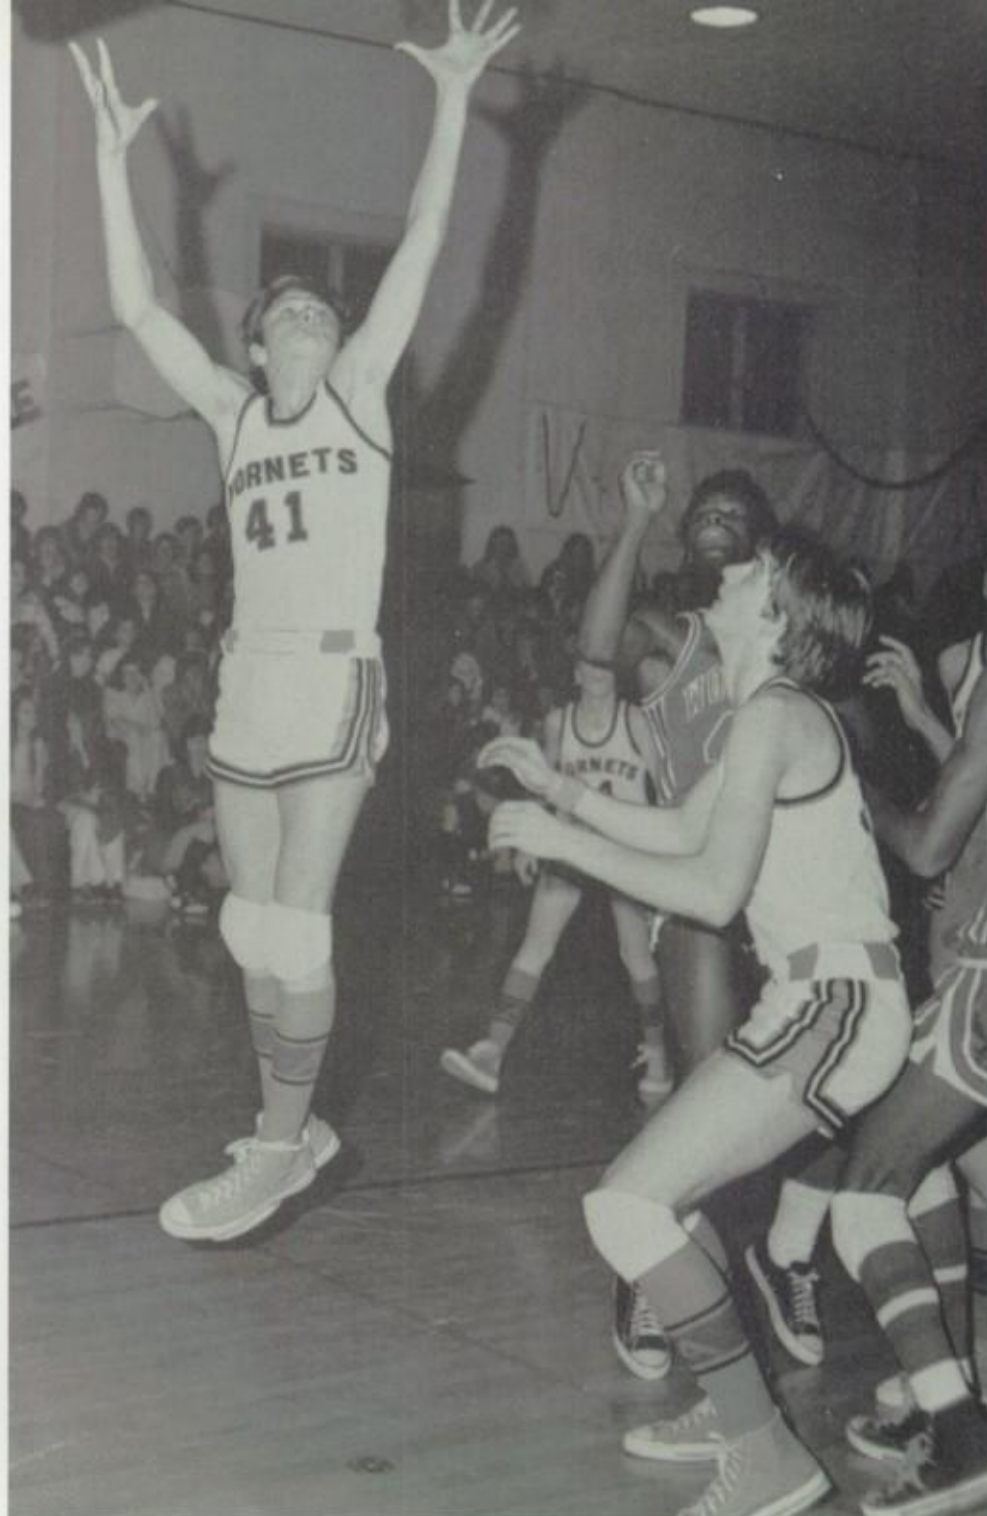

Basketball "B" Team Claims 8 Victories, 11 Defeats

The high point of the junior varsity season, according to Coach Carroll Cookson, was defeating first-seeded Puxico in the Puxico Invitational Tournament. In a regularly scheduled game, the AHS B team defeated Bell City, which had won three first place trophies in seasonal tournaments.

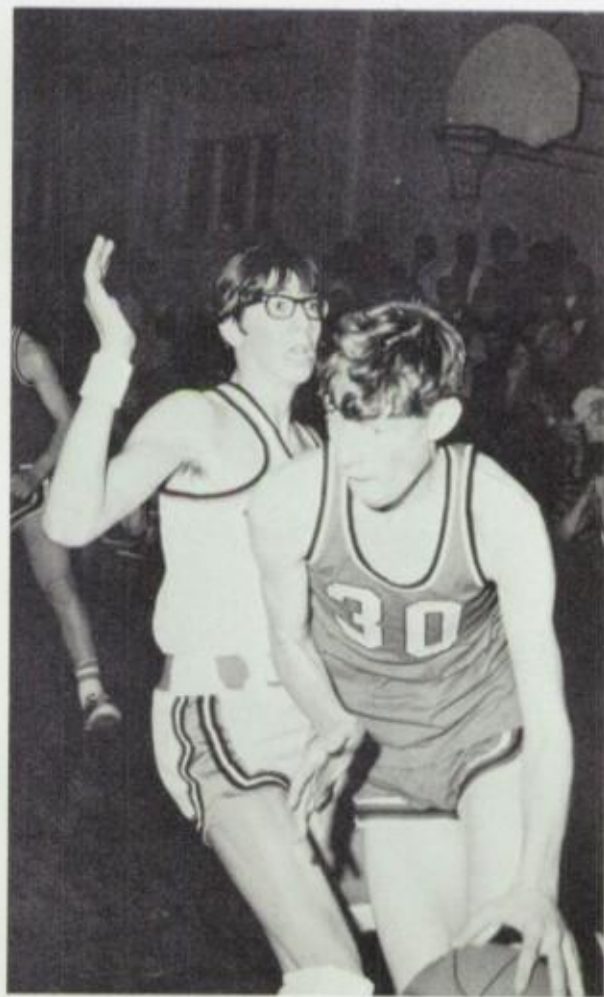

The junior varsity took third place in the Puxico Invitational Tournament and fourth place in the Bell City tournament.

They ended their season with an 8-11 record.

“We’ve gone as far as we can go this year. Next year it’s on to State,” exclaimed the excited and very happy volleyball players.

Winning first in the newly-organized District Volleyball Tournament and the Stoddard County Tournament were highlights of the Hornet A team’s 1974-75 season.

The Hornets suffered only two defeats, losing to Richland and Leopold on the Hornets’ home court.

Leopold, Zalma, Notre Dame, and Woodland were new names added to the volleyball schedule’s list of opponents.

“B” Volleyball Takes Second In Stoddard

Defeating Richland 15-2 and 13-11 after time had run out was the most exciting victory of the junior varsity's season.

The B team suffered one of its three losses to Dexter during the finals of the Stoddard County Tournament, but the Hornets proudly carried the second place trophy home.

Junior Terry Hill led the team in runs batted in, totalling eleven during the season. Jo Cummins held the best batting average, .357.

Girls Play In Basketball Intramurals For First Time

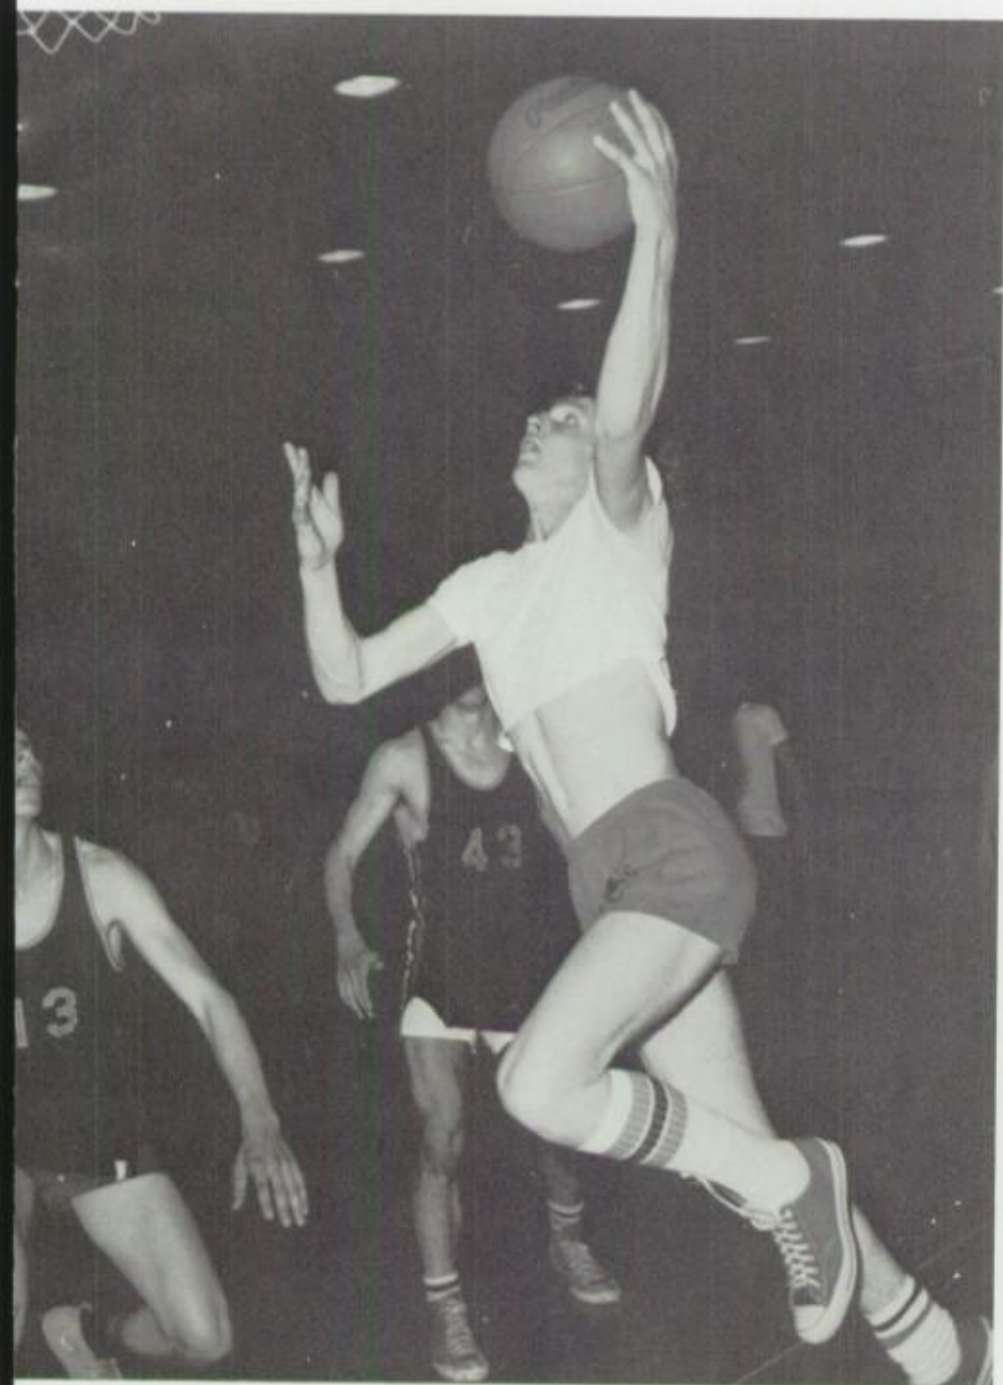

Basketball intramurals created great excitement among the participants, giving all students a chance to compete.

The girls, too, had basketball rather than volleyball intramurals this year. The third, fourth, and fifth hour girls' physical education classes held a tournament. Third hour won first.

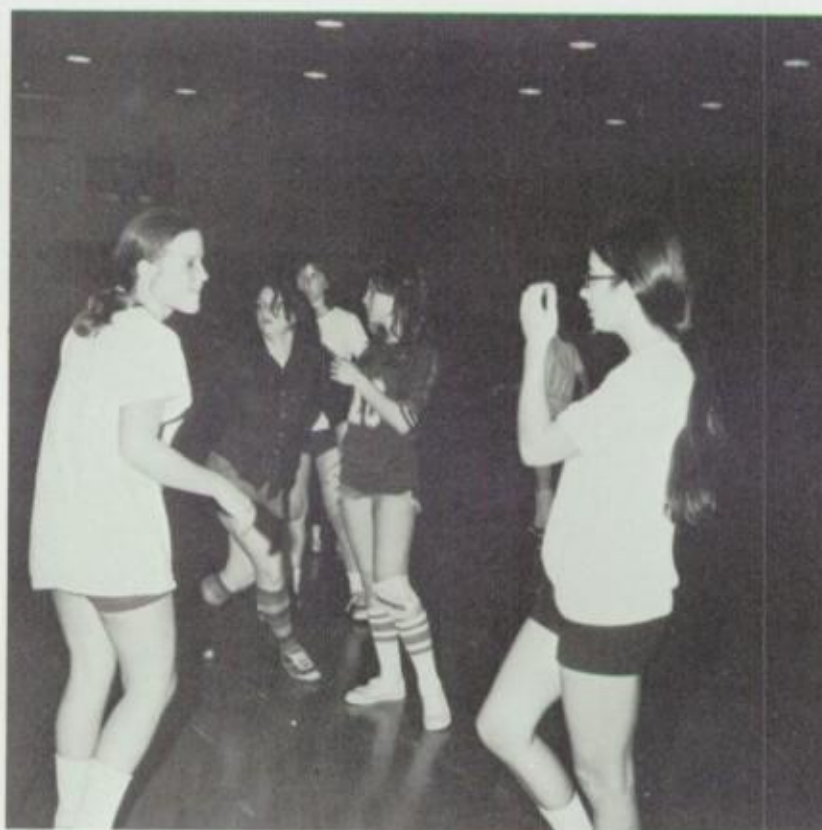

Bounding with basketball enthusiasm, the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior girls held a tourney. The juniors were the final victors.

The boys' intramurals were between third, fourth, fifth, and sixth hour physical education classes. First place went to the sixth hour boys.

New Carnival Rules Alter Royalty Voting

New rules set up by the Parent Teacher Student Association carnival committee added spice and excitement to this year's carnival. The first grade class, who earned the most money in elementary, won a trip to the St. Louis Zoo. The high school freshman class won a trip to Six Flags.

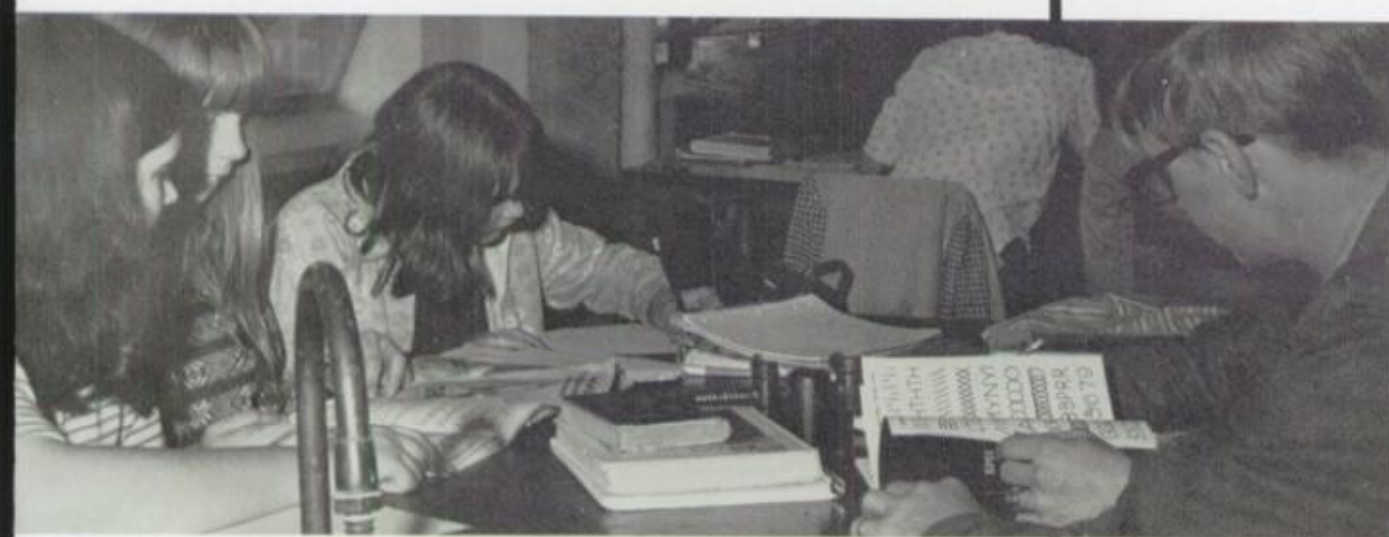

Ballots were cast by persons attending the carnival for the candidates of their choice from one class in elementary and one high school class. Tiffany Morgan and Mike Middleton of Mrs. Ruth Liley's first grade were the royal elementary couple. Seventh graders Sherry Strauser and Mark Allison were crowned high school royalty at the annual event.

Seniors Debbie McFarlin and Steve Welch were first runners-up in high school competition. In the elementary division, first runners-up were Cheryl Owens and Bryan Welch of Mrs. Mary Rhodes' second grade.

Psychology Explores The Psychic World

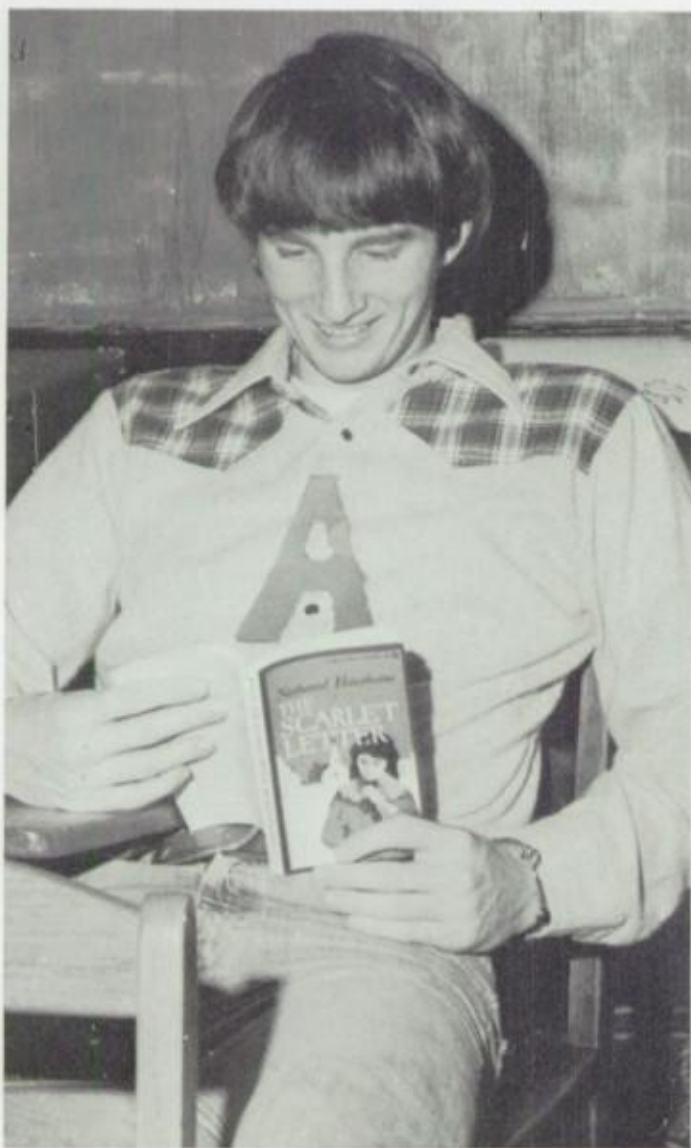

Juniors and seniors had a freer hand in selecting social studies courses. Robert Kirkpatrick, high school instructor, offered four semester courses. They were psychology — government, the history of slavery and the Civil War — contemporary issues. Sophomores had a semester of world geography, and then switched to world history.

Junior high social studies, taught by Earl Reinhart, gave students an insight into how different cultures and people adjust to their environment. The students also studied the Missouri and the U.S. Constitutions.

Writing Class Publishes A Literary Magazine

Since English III was dropped as a requirement for graduation, Mrs. Jan Morgan replaced the course with four new semester electives.

New classes added to senior high English were developmental reading and vocabulary, practical English, creative writing, and critical evaluation of the novel. The creative writing class launched a literary magazine, The Avalanche, a collection of the students' poems, short stories, and fables.

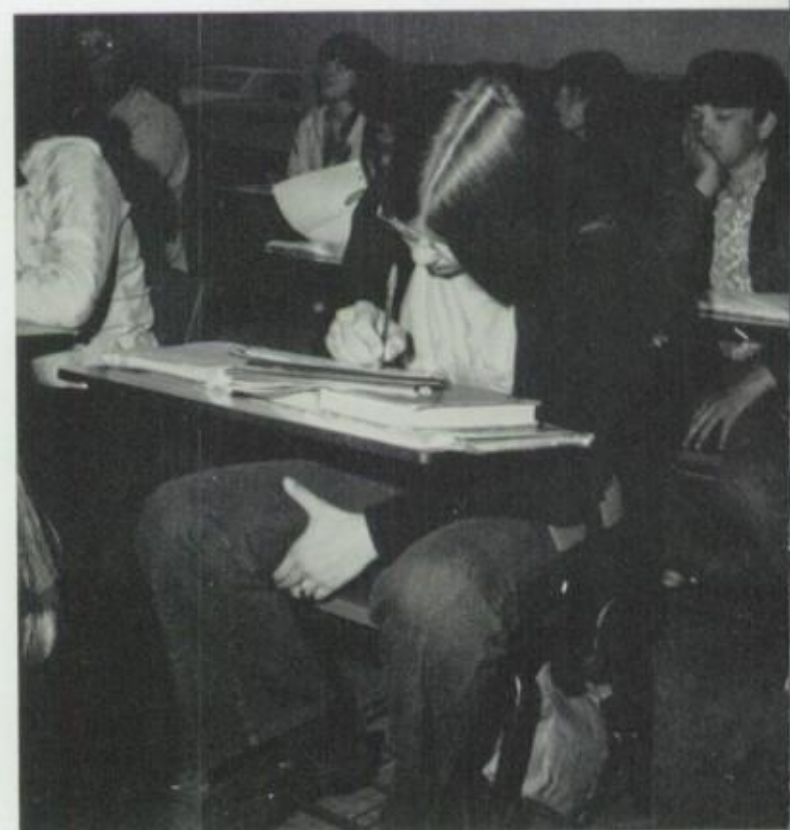

Mrs. Morgan stressed vocabulary heavily in her classes, using Bergen Evans' audio-visual aids.

Mrs. Lois Vavak's junior high reading and spelling classes worked in groups, with one student from each group acting as teacher. Her junior high English classes wrote and performed their own skits and plays, in addition to reading and performing other writers' materials.

Speech class, also taught by Mrs. Vavak, utilized new textbooks entitled Patterns in Communications. The speech class performed a one-act play, "Girls Ask Boys For Dates" for the Fifth and Sixth Grades.

Math Classes Receive New Books, Equipment

A highlight of the physics class was the trip to the Science Department at Southeast Missouri University. Four physics students and Bill Daugherty, their instructor, attended the Bell Telephone Science Day at Howard Johnson's Motel.

The remedial math class endeavored to collect a million soda bottle caps to gain a concept of huge numbers. Mr. Daugherty also taught this class, geometry, and Algebra II.

Mrs. Viola Mayfield's classes received new materials this year. They included magic squares, line designs, string designs, and books on construction and space figures. The Eighth Grade concentrated on a construction booklet, while the Seventh Grade turned in some interesting designs. Mrs. Mayfield instructed the Ninth Grade, too.

Science Club Prepares For Archeological Dig

Mrs. Davis' seventh and eighth grade science classes got a taste of the contract grading system. As one part of the contract for a high grade, a student had to do art projects.

Work with gasoline engines was particularly interesting to the eighth graders, while dissecting frogs captured the seventh graders' interest.

Future career goals were taken into consideration in advanced biology class. Subjects were studied that would benefit students planning to go into such careers as nursing and physical education.

The Science Club, under the direction of William Teeters, planned an archeological dig. They prepared for this dig with books and films on the subject.

AHS Adds To Curriculum Vocational Technical Training

For the first time, juniors and seniors participated in a vocational technical school at Central High in Cape Girardeau. Students were bussed to the school each day at 8:15 a.m. and arrived home at 12:20 p.m. Ten students were enrolled in the following classes: electronics, design and drafting, food services, auto body, computer programming, horticulture, and auto mechanics.

Learning about life in France by corresponding with French pen pals was one of the interesting projects completed by Harold Tilley's French classes.

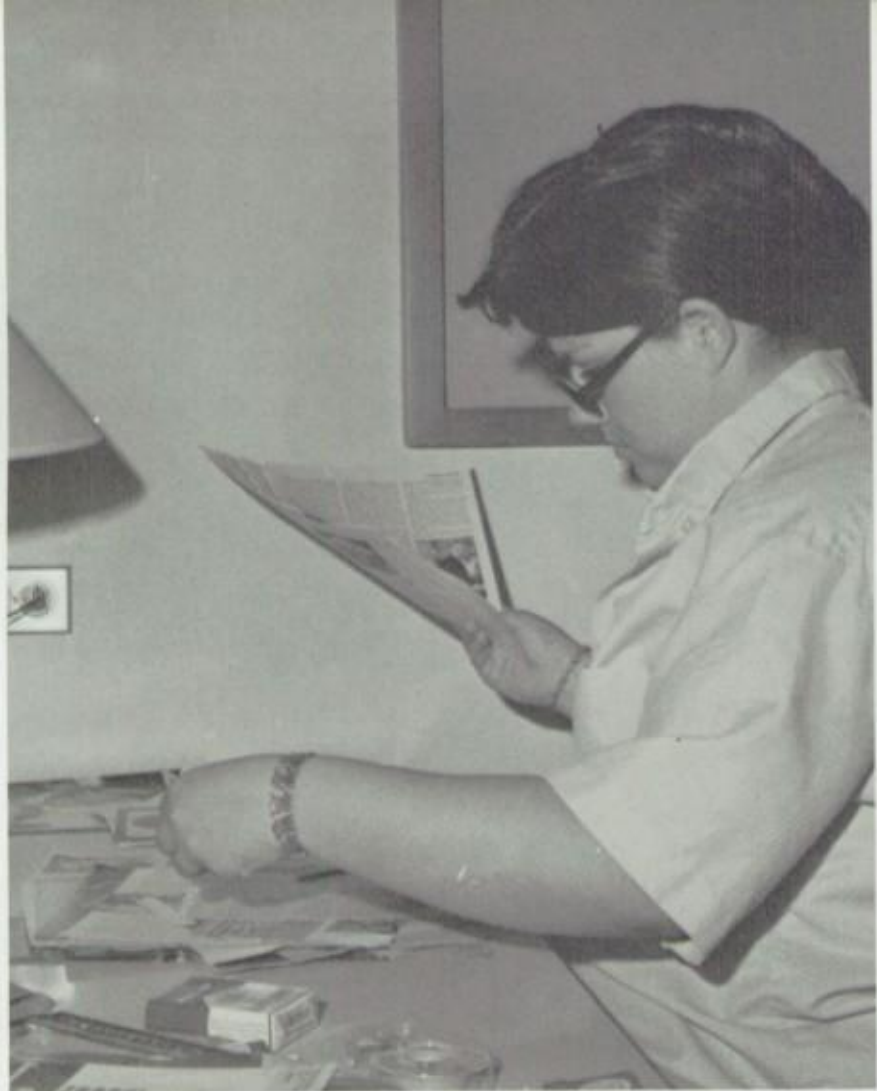

Playing Bingo, which in French is called Bravo, was used as an exercise to learn numbers in French.

The library was greatly renovated and was replenished with many new books and equipment.

Newspaper Changes To Tabloid Format

The journalism class expanded the size of The Hornet, the school newspaper, from a 7 ½ x 10 four-page paper to a tabloid size of four pages; however, to cope with rising printing costs, the class published only every three weeks instead of bi-weekly. The class also solicited advertising to help pay for the increased size.

The '74 Advancer, the school yearbook, again gained All-Missouri honors, the highest rating given by the Missouri Inter-Scholastic Press Association. The Advancer was also given a First Honors rating by Columbia Scholastic Press Association of Columbia University, New York City. The book amassed 943 points of 1000.

Four students won five state awards from MIPA, class G (high schools under 450 enrollment). Gary Trout won third place for an editorial and second for an in-depth article; Nancy Towery and Lynn Hinkle second in advertising; Terrie Daniel second in photography.

Classes Prepare For Contemporary Problems

The Home Economics classes' subjects dealt with problems in today's culture. Subjects discussed included interior decorating, consumer education, foods and clothing, personal culture, and the newly-formed child care and development class.

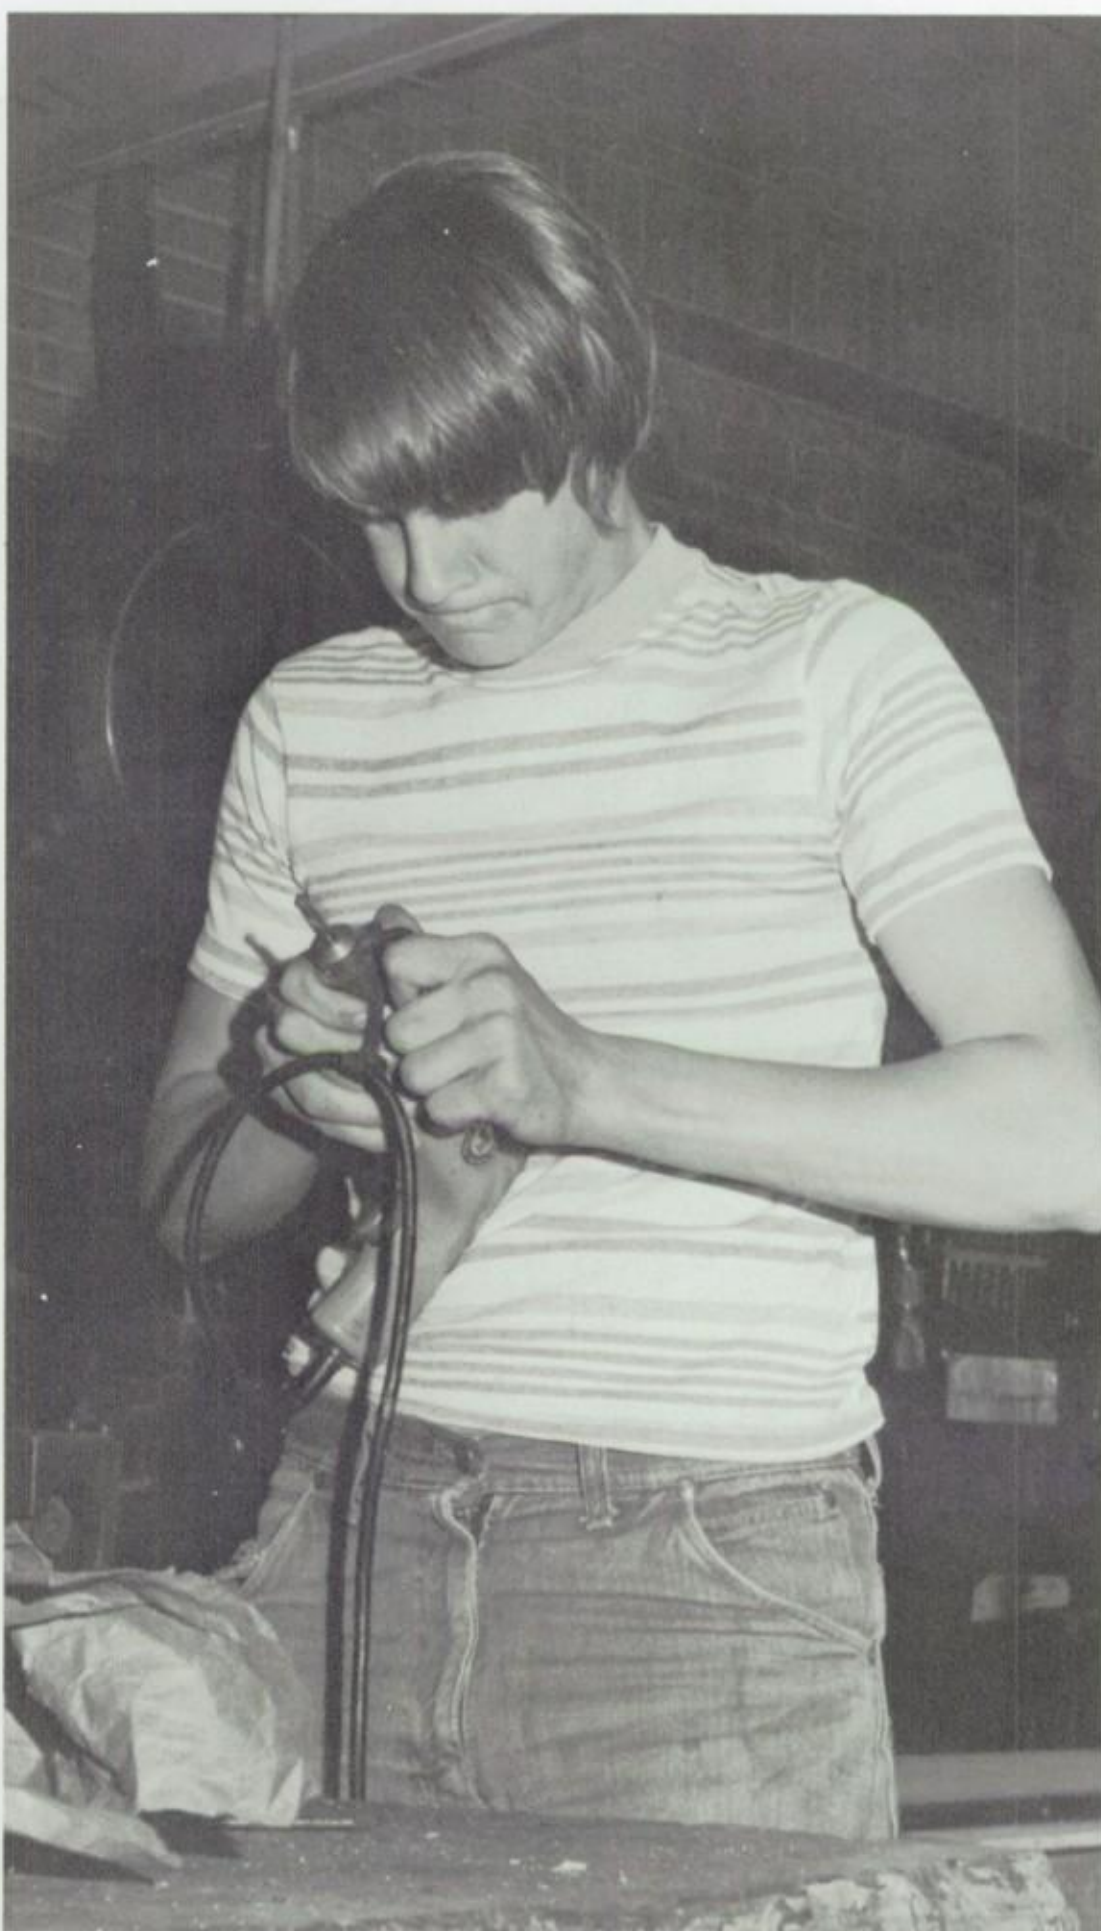

"All of our subjects are instrumental in making a living, and are therefore interesting to the students," stated Flay Davis, vocational agriculture instructor.

Mr. Davis's animal science and plant science classes utilized new books. They also concentrated on soil sampling and vaccination for cholera and blackleg.

Masonry class built a concrete block wall six feet high and twelve and one-half feet long, with one window and a door, just for practice.

Mr. Davis instructed four different welding classes. One of the class projects completed was making farm machinery to scale. They also did design welding.

Lower Grades Begin Regular Art Classes

Everything was new and exciting in elementary and junior high art classes this year, because this was the first time art was a regular class in the lower grades.

Dan Sitze, who taught art in grades one through eight, noted that the elementary grades seemed to enjoy making clay sculptures and puppets most. The junior high classes especially enjoyed painting with water colors.

William Teeters' Art I class followed the same curriculum as last year, painting with water colors and oil, working with clay, and doing different types of sculpting.

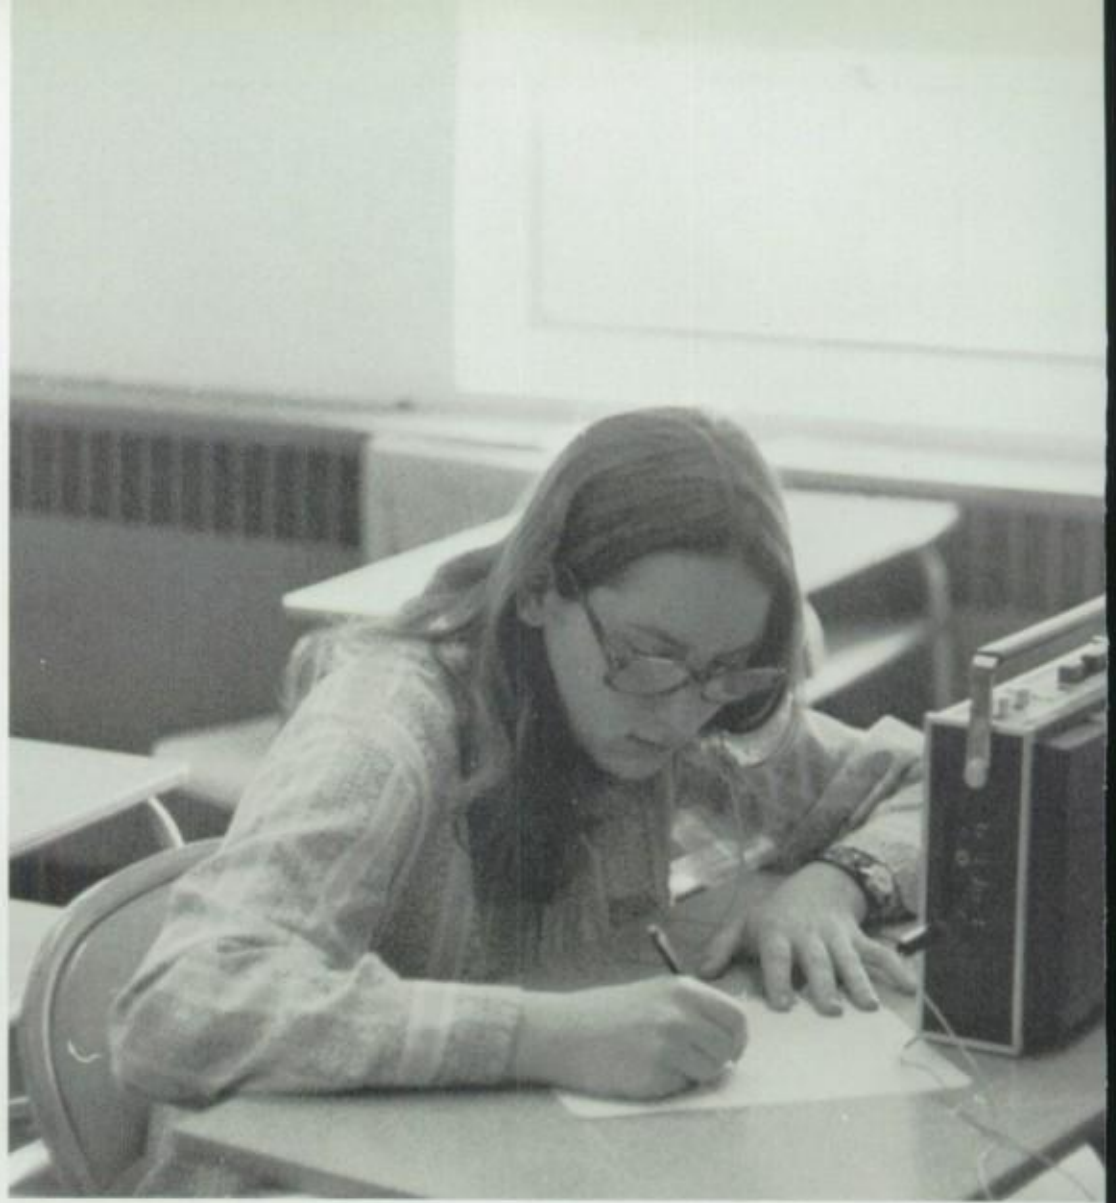

Antiquing and quilling were new activities added in Mrs. Mary Long's Art II class. In quilling, one rolls strips of paper around corsage pins or some similar object to make leaves, flowers, etc. Art II class also wove baskets and did embroidery and needlepoint.

Bookkeeping Makes Field Trip To IBM Department

The ability of the individual to move along at his own pace gained the favorable opinion of the Accounting I and Accounting II students in evaluating the new system of learning under Mrs. Mary Richmond. Each student was required to keep a notebook of his test grades and records of homework turned in. At a glance, the student could see if he was attaining the preset goals in each class.

Mrs. Richmond's general business class was busy learning the fundamentals of business. The section on banking was of particular delight to the students.

Teaching filing, reception, and duplicating in the clerical practice course were Ferrell Wiggins' jobs. He also taught secretarial practice, shorthand, and two classes of typing.

Health Classes Study 'Your Chance To Live'

The girls' physical education classes had a year of new beginnings. Under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Wiggins, the girls tested their gymnastic ability in advanced tumbling and intricate bamboo hop patterns.

The boys enjoyed boxing, calisthenics, wrestling, and flag football, while the girls concentrated on volleyball, and square dancing. Both took part in hockey, softball, ping-pong, crab socker, tennis, and basketball. With Coach Carroll Cookson's teaching, the boys learned a new game, mat football.

In health, Mrs. Wiggins and Coach Cookson taught the students a new course, Your Chance To Live. With books and films, they learned what to do when a natural or nuclear disaster strikes.

Pep Band Musicians Spark Home Games

Performing in the pre-game show of Southeast Missouri State University's homecoming game was a highlight of the Advance High School band's marching season.

A stage band was organized this year. The band later became a pep band after the addition of some clarinets. This band did indeed add to AHS's pep, as it provided lively entertainment during home basketball games.

On March 17 several AHS students traveled to Cape Girardeau, Missouri, to participate in the District Music Contest.

Kelly Kidd, Jane Elfrink, Vicki Palmer, and Tammy Stilts received a one rating for their clarinet quartet. Linda Johns received a one for her vocal solo, while Erika Voss got a two and Brenda King a three rating for their piano solos.

Advance Schools Gain New AA Classification

After an overall evaluation of the Advance school educational programs, the school was classified AA according to the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. In addition to the regular academic programs, vocational technical training and learning disabilities were added.

The elementary school also gained a new library. It contains several hundred new books and new equipment.

AHS Renovates Study Hall, Now Large Library

The enlargement of the library was one of the most welcomed renovations at the high school during the year. The library was moved to include all of the old study hall. New shelving was installed to accommodate several hundred new books. The old tables were refinished with vinyl. New tables, chairs, and a newspaper rack were also added.

Mrs. Long's Home Economics Department received a new refrigerator, which will be replaced every year, according to a new school plan.

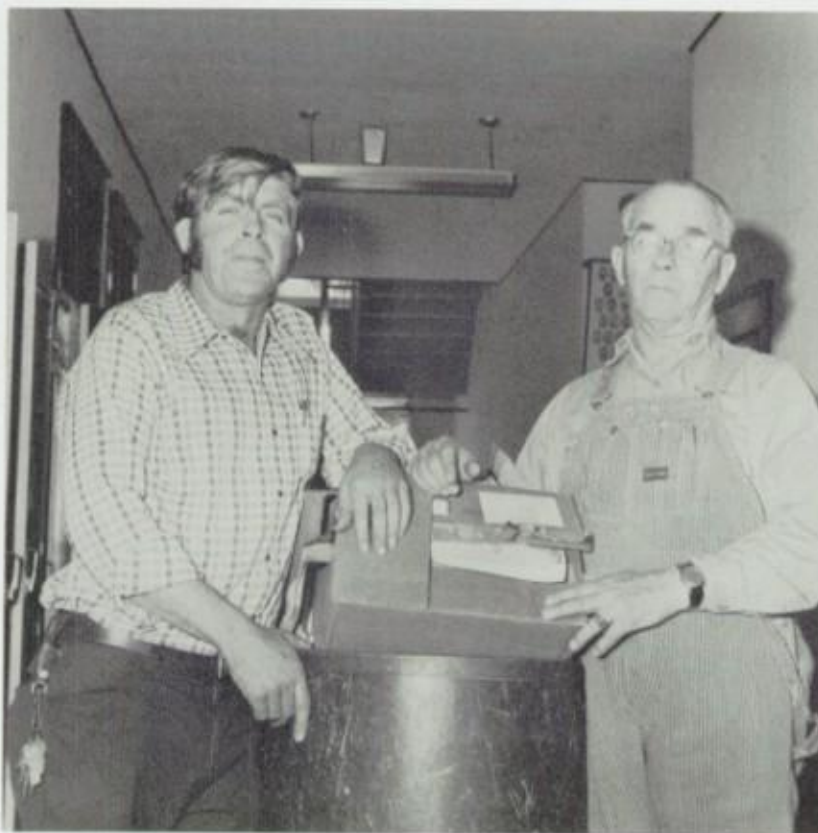

New draperies were hung in Superintendent Floyd Liley's office. The school purchased a mower for the tractor.

New additions to the elementary included a walk-in freezer built behind the cafeteria. An audiometer was also purchased.

New pianos were bought for the high school and the elementary.

AHS bought two new buses. Each holds 54 passengers.

The School Board hired two new custodians, Mrs. Mary Crosswhite and Charles Bennett.

Senior Scholarships Provide Assistance

Forty-one seniors were graduated May 22, ending twelve years of triumphs and disappointments and beginning an era of hope and freedom.

Three students spoke at Commencement. They were Gary Trout, valedictorian; Janice Long, salutatorian; and Kenneth McFerron, Student Council president.

Several students received scholarships to the colleges of their choice. Gary Trout accepted three scholarships to Murray State University, Murray, Ky., a $500 Alumni Association, a $100 journalism, and a dormitory scholarship. Brenda Rainey received the $250 MFA award. The Advance Lions Club selected Vicki Palmer as its scholar. Rus Lanpher and Kenneth McFerron were awarded general scholarships worth $220 to Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau. Janice Long received a grant to attend School of the Ozarks at Point Look Out, Mo., and Debby McCullough received a grant to attend the School of Beauty Culture at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Elementary Begins New Learning Disabilities Class

This year the elementary school began a new program, learning disabilities. This is a program designed for children with some problem which keeps them from reaching their full potential.

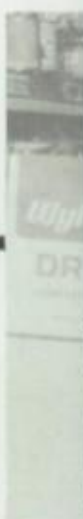

Brief instructional periods were scheduled for students throughout the day. In the class, students received individualized instruction.

A memorable occasion for the First Grade was a trip to the St. Louis Zoo on April 26. The class won the trip by making the most money for the PTSA Carnival.

Under the coaching of Fifth Grade teacher, J. Moore, the fifth and sixth graders played many more basketball games. The Sixth Grade increased its schedule from four games to eleven, and finished with a 5-6 record. The Fifth Grade increased its scheduled games from four to nine and ended the season with a 4-5 record.

The elementary library received several hundred new books during the year.

Elementary Teachers: (Sitting) Mrs. Carla Tilley, kindergarten; Miss Mary Gayle Rhodes, special education; Miss Barbara Berrong, music. (Standing) Mrs. Carol Harshaw, Third Grade; Miss Cathy Brown, elementary and high school librarian; Mrs. Doris DeGroot, Fourth Grade; Mrs. Evelyn Matney, Second Grade; Mrs. Grace Wilburn, Sixth Grade; Mrs. Linda Glastetter, speech pathology; Mrs. Liana Jenkins, learning disabilities; Mrs. Wanda Jenkins, Fifth Grade; Mrs. Dorothea Dumas, remedial reading; and Mrs. Juanita Lynch, Fourth Grade.

Editor's Last Words

Few people realize what a job it is to be editor of the school yearbook. I know I didn't when I agreed to be editor. However, all the work has been worth it, for I can look through this book and remember something about each spread — how hard it was to get a picture, or how we had to dig for some copy.

I worry, now in May, 1975, just how the students will accept this book. It's sort of like hoping your child will do well as an adult. I, with my help, have worked hard and long on this yearbook. We hoped to convey our theme and compile the story of the school year simultaneously, and I believe we did.

At times, when I was especially tired, I would almost regret being editor; but as we turned in the cover design, which received such good comments, and as we met a deadline, I would feel so good, so high, and so on top of it all. Then I would realize what an expanding experience editing a yearbook is. I can honestly say I don't regret any of it. It was worth it all.

Skim through this book the first time, looking at the pictures. Terrie Daniel has shown her worth as a photographer. Then go back and read the copy. It will mean more to you as the years go by.

I love this book, a child of my brain. The theme, Free to be Ourselves, expresses the feelings of today's students, and the freedom we as American citizens enjoy. Please accept this book with a free and open mind.

I would like to extend a special thanks to Mrs. Jan Morgan for her help and understanding. Thanks to Babette Morgan for her encouragement and help. I'd like to thank my junior editor, Kelly Kidd, and the teachers for being so tolerant of our interrupting their classes to kidnap their students for ad pictures.

Thanks also go to the administration for being so lenient when we needed to leave the school grounds to take pictures.

Last I would like to thank my mom who put up with my odd hours and working and griping continually.

Thanks, friends, for sticking by

Janice Long
